Christmas Party Plans

Make This a Toy Christmas for the Children

Happy voices of children make a music sweeter than symphonies.
Ripples of laughter. Such cries of joy! Gladness in their hearts, for the toys and things they have dreamed of are

IN TOYLAND---HURRY!

Santa Claus is an easy going old fellow, but he wants those who are waiting after his regular boys and girls not to wait too long to buy his wonderful collection.

There are fascinating toys that teach, interesting mechanical play-things, myriads of blocks in different sizes and shapes, brilliant carts and wheelbarrows for out-of-doors, and appealing dollies. They are available and Santa Claus has an enviable job.

Every Section these toys are comprehensively priced, and almost any type of plaything can be had for as much or as little as you care to pay.

Christmas Eve

LONDON, Dec. 6.—(The Times) It was reported by the German information office that the German government had decided to celebrate Christmas Eve.

Such is the sensationalism of John Pollock, son of one of Britain's most prominent financiers, and formerly correspondent in the Baltic for the Daily Express and International News Service.

Pollock made his charges in a columnist's column in the For-tightly Review, one of England's most conservative periodicals. The columnist is based on the statement of an officer connected with the war with whom Pollock talked.

Germany, declared Pollock, was engaged in a scheme for the abductees of Nicholas, the raising of his son to the throne, and the appointment of the Grand Duke of Russia, the ex-Emperor's brother, as regent. A further condition of the scheme was the assurance that the son should marry a German princess.

Nicholas in the act of abdication signed by Pavlov, had abdicated the throne not only for himself but for his son as well. It was proposed that Nicholas be brought back to Russia where he would receive his abduction as having been obtained under pressure and then again solemnly abdicate, but this time in favor of his son.

The czar's reply to this proposal, according to the officer quoted by Pollock was:

"I am not a traitor to my people."

So the czar, who was German, had decided to use the resources of Russia to feed her starving population and bustle her weakening western front, was blocked. And Nicholas and all his relatives who might have had any knowledge of the proposal met their deaths at the hands of Magyar assassins.

Our large stock of Christmas Gifts comprises articles of "distinctiveness"—every article is such as a recipient will appreciate.

One of the most appropriate gifts that we can receive and use are hand-colored photographs of scenes in and around Diagon. Every one that is sent to an out-of-town friend is not only an appreciated gift but a perpetual reminder for the community.

HENDERSON, Ky., Dec. 4.—No one has been found who can classify a bird—a wild duck with feet and bill of a chicken—captured in Webster county.

(Newspaper Enterprise Association.)
AKRON, O., Dec. 4.—Whitebaiters and their ill-fated master were today while many a mother weeps. The death of John C. Weber, 28, householder here for 16 years. He was the terror of husbands who deserted their families and an angel of mercy in every poor home.
